$2,700,000

Is What It Cost To Make a New Full-glorious Champion.

(From the New York Sun.)

In regard to the total expenditure of money in the United States brought about by the championship fight between James Corbett and Robert Fitzsimmons, at Carson City, Nev., last Wednesday, was $2,700,000, apportioned, according to careful estimates, as follows:

Paid to telephone companies for ticket and advertising	$1,000,000
and private despatches	1,000,000
Railroad fares, steamship fares, and other expenses incident to travel	500,000
Admission fees, average cost per	100,000
Commission of pool-sellers	70,000
Traveling expenses	10,000
Extraneous costs to newspapers to furnish news, aside from advertising	20,000
Expenditure at hotels, restaurants, rooms and places of amusement enroute and in Carson City	100,000
Profits of workers in commissions and insurance	10,000
Total	$2,700,000

These estimates, so far as the traveling and incidental expenses go, are based on the reported attendance of 5,000 strangers in the Nevada town, an odd assemblage of people, which has been aptly termed a national convention of gamblers, prostitutes, and gamblers' prostitutes, spent by the degenerate constituents who stayed at home. No account is made of the vast sum of money bet and lost and many other items which might rightly be included in expenditures.

All things considered, the estimates are low, but the sum is large enough to furnish food for interesting and shamming talk, and it is a good subject for the American people to see and hear about a brutal fight to the finish between two human beings! $2,700,000 squandered on no palpable purpose in view!

The fight lasted just fifty-three and a half minutes, including all intermissions. That means that it cost the people of the United States $50,467.29 a minute.

There are 1,000 unemployed men in New York at the present time who are willing to work.

The money spent on this fight would give each of these employment for a month at a day, would buy each of them three sets of clothes.

It would give each one of their families $1 worth of food for a month.

It would keep 1,000 families, twice the entire population of Greater New York, in fuel for a month at a day.

Mr. D. W. Fairleigh, now engaged in practice as a member of the firm of Fairleigh & Straub, with offices in the Louisville Trust Company's building at Fifth and Market streets, Mr. Fairleigh is a native Kentuckian, having been born in Breckinridge county in 1853, and after having finished his general education he entered the law school of the University of Louisville, from which he graduated in the class of 1874, and immediately engaged in active practice, and has since been constantly identified with the practice of law. Among those who have attained an exceptional excellence in the law, he is one of the leaders, and is known to all of the legal profession, and this is particularly true with reference to the profession of law, in which are engaged practitioners of marked ability and skill, some of whom have long been identified with the practice of the law.

Commonwealth, etc., vs. D. P. Bowles of Flemingsburg, etc., vs. Farmers' Bank of Flemingsburg; Battie, C. P. vs. Farmers' Bank; reversed.

The decision of the court affects every bank in the State. It reverses a previous decision, which held that banks should be taxed under the Hewitt law, and subjects all banks to the ad valorem tax.

The facts in the case are brief. In 1883 it was held that what is known as the Hewitt bill, according to which banks were to pay the State 75 cents on every $100, and were not to be subject to any other taxation.

This was accepted by the banks, and a contract entered into. But in 1893 the Legislature did away with the Hewitt law, and passed a bill taxing the banks according to the ad valorem system, with out deducting debts. The banks contested this, and they were sustained in their objection by the Court of Appeals, which held that the Hewitt law should hold.

But a number of banks had been formed since 1883, and these were subject to the ad valorem tax. They sued, holding that they should not be taxed under the new law, and that the old banks. These are the cases that were decided to-day.

The Court of Appeals has been changed since 1893, and the decision to-day not only holds that the new banks shall be taxed on the ad valorem system, but also reverses the previous decision, holding that the Hewitt law is unconstitutional and that all banks shall pay ad valorem tax.

Discourses and Advises on the State of Politics in Meade.

He Wants a Better State of Morals

EDWARD NEWS.—In a recent issue of the Meade County Messenger appeared quite a salty communication from Mr. J. T. Jones, of Elkhorn. I read his letter with a good deal of interest, but while I applaud his ultimate intentions, I feel that his present position is not quite so good. Yet we quote from his letter: "He says it is a very plain fact that there is no use for any man to run for office unless he is willing to use means that are far beneath the dignity of a man of honor." I hope that the start that he will be defeated as sure as anyone comes out against him, who will use the vile and corrupt means that are being used more and more every year in this fair land of ours."

Brother Jones, that is saying in so many words that the successful candidates in your recent Democratic primary used corrupt and vile means to win their nominations. Did you mean to make such a charge? If the facts are as bad as you represent them (and I believe they are), why do you urge Democratic citizens of Meade county, to "rally round the party" in regular election and vote for every candidate who was nominated at the primary?"

Therefore, brother Jones, I say I like, not your present, but your future purpose only, which is "to be one of an organization of men, who will pledge themselves to do any thing, whatever may never under any circumstances, whatever you say, for, or aid, in any way, to elect any man to office, who uses any means to influence voters except his own merits."

You evidently mean that the organization, you favoring, shall bind themselves by "a solemn vow" that shall take effect only after the next election, for the nomination of a man to be voted for the nominees at the regular election.

more, by defeating every man at the regular election that was nominated in that disgraceful campaign. That is to say, this should be done, provided a ticket is put up of good men, who would soon win their election by defeating the youth and old age of our country. We ought to have 1,000,000 men, and then a ticket which will try to wipe out the blot on the county's name by defeating the whole outfit nominated at your recent Democratic (whiskey) election. Will you be one of the 1,000, brother Jones? If not, why try to get men to take a vow in the future to do a similar thing?"

Wouldn't it be a most wholesome example for future campaigns if the nominees should all be defeated. Let us teach them that we do not want drunkards and bribees made out of our youth. Undoubtedly, a state of things like this should be eliminated in our country, our youth should be encouraged to lead lives of industry, honesty and sobriety; but this cannot be done by electing men to office, who do all in their power to lower the standard of public morality by using corrupt and vile means to become popular. We ought to be honest and open and produce greater virtue than any other. It is not what we say, but what we do. Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that is all I say.

How prosperity May Be Regained (New York Times).

"My most tried remedy is Time," is a phrase attributed to the wise old man who is now the head of the Roman Catholic Church. Certainly it is a counsel whose judgment may well be taken when the facts are clear and the decision definite. Nearly twenty years ago there was passing in the Congress of the United States, till now the free and unhampered coinage of silver at the downward road to hell."—"If the silver standard is to be maintained."

You know "howson" some of the nominees, or perhaps any of them, when they are elected, how they feel when they hold up their right hand and swear in the presence of God, and the witnesses that may be present at the time, that they never used money or any other thing to secure their election, to influence voters to vote for them."

Oh, you won't have any twinges of conscience at all. Men who will make drunkards of our young men and "start many of all classes downward the road to hell" will not hesitate about such trifles as this. You know, too, that they who will violate the laws of God and man to win an election, will also violate the laws of God and man, to hold the offices.

Come with us, brother Jones, and let's defeat the whole outfit at the next regular election.

UNCLE JOHNATHAN.

Toppling Rheumatism.

The basest and most useful men are not always exempt from sickness. Especially are they liable to be attacked and completely disabled by that most loathsome disease, Rheumatism. Men in all walks of life are subject at any time to be seized by rheumatism. When the body is badly pained, there is almost unbearable mental anguish at the thought of having one's strength and vigor all gone. The disease is a curse to all, and especially to a condition of utter helplessness.

Under the effects of Rheumatism, the men become weak, the muscles and the nerves are robbed of their usefulness.

Mr. A. L. LeSear has had some of the prettiest residences and most substantial business blocks of that city are attributed to his skill as an architect and builder.

One day lately outside 'till another one is on. The river and creeks and every little rill from the cliffs and hill sides presents a madly rushing torrent while the valleys and low lands are submerged from hill to hill and still raining.

Miss Mary Peyton was kept at home from school several days during the recent flood, because of the water being high and could not reach school.

We had no train for several days on account of the track and some of the bridges being flooded, but we sincerely hope the water may not rise so high this time as it is a great inconvenience to do without the mail so long.

To accomplish this, we must have first the single gold standard and the independent currency will be entirely maintained. Second, the most important economy in our National expenditure.

Third, the greatest practicable freedom of commerce with all parts of the world. This is a view as to day as it was twenty years ago.

It will surprise you like many other busy men, Mr. LeSear was overtaken by Rheumatism.

His great strength gave way to a condition of great helplessness. The disease produces more agony, he says, than can well be described. "For instance, when I take a walk, I feel like I am being pulled to pieces by a thousand sharp points of pain, and then only at the expense of great pain. I could get absolutely no relief, though many recommended S. S. S. and I was almost in despair when I began to use it. In three days, however, I was greatly relieved, so that I felt only very little inconvenience from the rheumatism. The disease grew less and less, and soon disappeared entirely. S. S. S. also proved to be a fine tonic, and now I can walk and go about as I did before, than ever before, in my life. I cannot say too much in praise of S. S. S."

Mr. LeSear is visiting Miss Anna Gaines.

Miss Anna Gaines, of Louisville, was in town Tuesday.

J. R. Mattingly, of Glendale, was in town Friday.

H. T. Thompson, of Horton, was in town Monday.

J. A. Fuqua, of Owensboro, was in town Thursday.

Sales Talk.

With Hood's Sarsaparilla, "Sales Talk" shows that this medicine has enjoyed public confidence and patronage to a greater extent than accorded any other proprietary medicine.

It possesses greater cure and produces greater cure than any other. It is not what we say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story.
